

Administration Management (Master's and Doctoral program)School of Public Affairs, Zhejiang University*www.spa.zju.edu.cn*Introduction

The postgraduate program of Administration Management is offered by School of Public Affairs at Zhejiang University. It is committed to fostering future leaders in public sectors, who are fully aware of the governmental system characteristics and social-economic development status of contemporary China and other countries. They shall also be equipped with practical skills for participating in and promoting public affairs.

Program Features1. Cooperation

The program highlights the interdisciplinary cooperation, cross-cutting cooperation and transnational cooperation. Interdisciplinary cooperation focuses on the multidisciplinary exchanges in the field of social sciences at Zhejiang University, actively building multidisciplinary platform including political science, public administration, economics, law, sociology and so on. Cross-cutting cooperation aims to satisfy the requirements of fostering personnel who are good at both theory and practical work; it is committed to promoting the close cooperation between Zhejiang University and government(community) at all levels, social organizations and news media, laying the foundation for students' professional practice. Transnational cooperation aims to invite world well-known professors and experts to deliver presentations at ZJU colloquiums, hence helping students to develop their international vision.

2. Participation

This program focuses on global roles of rapid-growing China, highlights international vision and Chinese perspective. Through providing opportunities for students to make in-depth inspection on Chinese society, it enables students to understand the changes of China in the process of globalization through participation, probe into the common issues and challenges faced by world development, lift their ability of leadership in an all-around way, and systematically cultivate their critical thinking and multicultural appreciation.

CurriculumPart 1. Theory and Methodology in Public Administration

Political Science, Public Economics, Theory and Practice of Governance, Public Budget Management, Public Human Resources Management, Public Policy Making and Analysis, Research Methodology of Social Sciences, Study on Public Administration

Part 2. Contemporary China and the World

Chinese Government and Politics, Study of Chinese Society, Studies on China's Politics and Diplomacy, International Relations in the Asia-Pacific Region, Local Government in Contemporary China, Studies of Diplomatic Policies, International Organization and Global Governance, Global Political Economy